Peculiar Harvest Festival.
At the end of the harvest season in Malabar there takes place the dance of the drummers, a popular function, in which the principal character is a weird figure supposed to represent the sacred cow of the gods, Kamachenu. A small boy carries this about while the other performers, decked out in primitive fashion with painted bodies and hideous masks, go through a weird dance, accompanied by much drum-beating and singing.

OCALA OCCURENCES

Masons meet Thursday evening.

Sons of Confederate Veterans meet Friday night.

Mr. J. D. Rooney, who has been quite sick for the last three days, is better today.

A full line of loose leaf ledgers, note books and memorandums all ways on hand at Gerig's. tf

Mr. B. A. Weathers expects to leave New York Friday, arriving home Sunday.

Mr. W. R. Coulter, tax assessor and a prominent citizen of Levy county, was in town today and paid the Star a pleasant call.

A letter from Atlanta says that Mr. John McCorkle, who has been sick so long, is somewhat better, and is able to sit out on the piazza of his home awhile every day.

Have you tried the "Delicious" cakes now being turned out by the Carter Bakery? They are named right; and only 10 cents per package. tf

Mr. W. W. Harriss and Mr. Albert O. Harriss motored to Trenton yesterday to transact business. They will return tomorrow.

Silver, Golden, Raisin, Chocolate and Pound cakes are now put up at the Carter Bakery in 10 cent packages under the name of "Delicious." None better. Try them. tf

Mr. McKenzie, the efficient assistant superintendent at the electric light plant, was seen this morning engaged in the arduous task of driving a flock of ducks and wearing his best smile at the same time. Mac was succeeding remarkably well.

Charlie "Dopy" Chaplin, the only clown in his class, will be at the Temple with his unapproachable fun tonight. Also the Pathe News, "The Turn of the Wheel," an Essayan drama, and "Poison," an instructive pure food subject gotten up by the Kaleem people. A mighty fine mid-week bill.

"DELICIOUS" is the brand under which the Carter Bakery is now putting out ten cent packages of cake in five flavors. If you are not now using them try some and avoid the hot oven during this strenuous warm weather. tf

Mr. H. S. Chambers received yesterday from an old friend, Mr. S. L. Fluellen, of the Orange Lake section, a boxful of his famous melons, raised from seed first imported from Alabama years ago. They are exceptionally fine melons, and Hamp and his fireboys and a friend or two had a feast.

LEGAL FALLACIES.

Ancient Superstitions That Tenaciously Cling to Life.

On the subject of "Some Popular Legal Superstitions" Case and Comment says that there are many misconceptions of legal doctrines, usually tenaciously held and sometimes rashly acted upon to the client's undoing, some of which are so grotesquely distorted that it is difficult to trace them to their origin. One of the most widely spread but fortunately harmless of these is that in order that a will disinheriting an heir may be valid he must be "cut off with a shilling." This notion is erroneous, but Blackstone finds a foundation for it in the civil law and says:

"The Romans were also wont to set aside testaments as being inefficient, deficient in natural duty, if they disinherited or totally passed by (without assigning a true, sufficient reason any of the children of the testator. But if the child had any legacy, though ever so small, it was proof that the testator had not lost his memory or reason, which otherwise the law presumed, but was then presumed to have acted thus from substantial cause. Hence probably has arisen that groundless vulgar error of the necessity of leaving an heir a shilling, or some other express legacy, in order to disinherit him effectually."

Another erroneous idea, quite generally entertained, is that a signature is not binding unless written in ink. Still another curious notion entertained in some localities is that an eye-witness may not testify to any occurrence seen by him "through glass." This is probably attributable to the fact that the imperfections of ancient window glass might deceive the onlooker as to what actually took place. The writer recalls an instance adduced by his instructor in physics while lecturing on the refraction of light of a windowpane in his house through which passersby on the opposite side of the square appeared, on coming opposite to a church, to leap over the steeple. A condition of this sort brought out on cross examination might affect the weight, though not the admissibility, of the evidence.

Remembered Prohibition.

Three-year-old Dorothy, who was allowed to play on the parkway, was told by her mother she must not get acquainted with strange people. One day an organ grinder with a monkey stopped to play and Dorothy made friends at once. As the organ grinder moved away Dorothy followed, her mother called to her, and she paused long enough to say: "Tee yest gettin' acquainted wif monkey, not man."

PERIL OF RUST.

A Constant Menace to Structures of Iron and Steel.

Among the many questions which the architect and builder are called upon to consider, none perhaps is more important than that relating to the corrosion of iron and steel. This tendency to decay is peculiar to these materials, since none of the ordinary metals exhibits it to any comparable degree, and it is so strong that an unprotected piece is soon reduced to a shapeless mass of rust. It is one thing to design and erect a mighty skyscraper, but an entirely different matter to protect it from those influences which, if allowed to do their work, would ruin the greatest structure in a short time.

It seems strange, in a way, that unless iron is well protected it is far less resistant to natural agencies than wood or other building materials. It is being used more and more in the fabrication of large buildings and other structures of a permanent type, and the length of their life to say nothing of the safety of the people employed in and around them, depends on the success with which corrosion can be prevented.

Painters are constantly employed on such structures as the Brooklyn or Forth bridges scraping away rust spots and repainting. When serious rusting is once started it is very hard to check, and as it would inevitably lead to the destruction of the framework, a collapse would be certain to occur sooner or later, probably with an appalling loss of life.—Engineering Magazine.

Curious Bread.

The bread that was served out during the siege of Genoa was a curious mixture. Marbot, who had to eat it or go without it, says it was "a horrible compound of damaged flour, sawdust, starch, hair powder, oatmeal, linseed, rancid wine and other nasty substances, to which a little solility was given by the admixture of a small portion of cocoa. Each loaf, moreover, was held together by little bits of wood, without which it would have fallen to powder. General Thiebault in his journal of the siege compares this bread to peat mingled with oil."—Argonaut.

Valley of Death.

The Valley of Death is in the island of Java. It is a crater of an extinct volcano, half a mile wide, filled with carbonic acid gas, which continually emanates from fissures in the bottom of the valley. The gas being invisible and entirely irrespirable, every living thing that descends is instantly suffocated. The ground about the crater is covered with bones.

Canal Locks.

Although the ancients knew the value of canals, they failed to hit on the simple device of the lock, which was not discovered till the fourteenth century. To this day the dispute has never been settled as to which country, Italy or Holland, is entitled to the credit of the invention.

A Polite Threat.

"Why do you always ask that regular customer if the razor hurts him?" asked one barber.
"Just as a gentle reminder," replied the other, "that if he forgets the tip it's liable to hurt him next time."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

One ungrateful man does an injury to all who are suffering.—Syrrus.

Seats were arranged on the piazza, prettily decorated with vari-colored flowers and potted plants, for the ladies and there an hour or more was delightfully spent, chatting and enjoying an ice course served with salted almonds by Miss Alice Bullock and the hostess bright little granddaughter, Miss Marie McKean.

The afternoon courtesy to Mrs. McKean was greatly enjoyed by all present.

She has a host of friends, as well as Miss Blake, a pianist of ability, who will welcome the opportunity, to be present Monday evening. For the past ten months Miss Downs has been studying in New York with Mr. Edwin Swain and she assisted him in his studio there.

The tickets, 50 cents each, will be put on sale tomorrow at the Court Pharmacy.

Miss Mildred Woodward, who has been the lovely guest of Miss Sarah Pearl Martin for a week, returned to her home at College Park, Ga., today.

Mrs. H. A. Fausett and daughters, Misses Ruby and Violet, will leave tomorrow for Louisville, Ky., where they will spend the remainder of the summer with Mr. Harry Fausett and wife.

News has just been received of the death of Mr. M. R. Shaffner, which occurred at Johnson City, Tenn., July 3th. Mr. Shaffner who was the father of Mrs. W. D. Caldwell of this city, spent last winter here in search of health.

The Prophesied Completeness.

Momentous Future In Woman's Mind

The expectant mother revolves in her mind all we understand by destiny. And it is of the utmost importance that her physical comfort be our first thought. There is a most splendid remedy for this purpose, known as "Mother's Friend." It is applied over the muscles of the stomach, gently rubbed in, and at once penetrates to relieve all strain on nerves, cords, ligaments and all parts involved. It makes the muscles so pliant that they expand naturally. And at the same time they are invigorated by the absence of harassing pains so apt to distress the mind. Whatever will add to the comfort of the expectant mother is a great and helpful influence since a calm and peaceful period upon the coming child. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" of any druggist and you will realize why so many women declare it to be the most helpful remedy they know of. Write today to Bradford Regulator Co., 402 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a splendid book of great interest and value to every expectant mother.
